

Fondabath to release their second upcoming single: 'Craving'

After a successful debut single, 'Where's Your Smile Gone?', Fondabath come bouncing back with another soft grunge number.

Craving teases a heavier grunge feel with a punchy introduction and twangy guitar. The song carries a powerful message about the harm of social media, a meaning many can relate to.

The single is released on the 2nd December, prior to two headlining gigs in the heart of Manchester (AATMA on the 2nd December; Retro on the 9th December).

Fondabath formed two years ago and have gained recent support from a headline gig at Club Academy in August. The band formed in the midst of the pandemic and have since taken the Manchester music scene by storm.

From indie-rock, to a heavier melody, Fondabath's sound is suited for someone looking to find new music about town.

The group are excited to release the rest of their set in due course.

Craving consists of punchy guitar, washy vocals and a hint of synth. The single is released with heavy anticipation.
